DRUNK WHO KILLS
MAN GIVEN EIGHT
TO 15 YEARS' TERM*Prisoner on Trial in Uniontown Pleads Ignorance of Crime.*IN DISPUTE OVER GIRL*Two Claim Daughter of Boarding House When Third, Joe Vargo, Enters the Scene and Tells Gun; Fourth Man, Peacemaker, Also Gets Bullets.

After Joe Vargo had been arraigned before Judge E. H. Reppert in Uniontown this morning on a charge of the murder of Charles Soukum, alias Charles Sokum, at Tower Hill, October 25 and had pleaded lack of knowledge of the crime because he was drunk at the time, a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree was returned and the prisoner was sentenced to serve a term of eight to 15 years in the Western Penitentiary. Witnesses were called to tell of the killing in order that the degree of crime could be fixed. All testified that Vargo was drunk. The murder took place during an argument as to whose "girl" Gertrude Meadows, daughter of the proprietor of the boarding house, was Soukum and George Ovanek were first involved. Then Vargo entered and during his argument he drew a revolver from Soukum's pocket and fired into his abdomen. Soukum was a cripple. Steve Papa, a peacemaker, also was shot and for some time was in a hospital.

Samuel Christ, Brownsville barber, was acquitted of a jury yesterday on charges of arson in connection with the destruction of his home in Knoxville Addition, near Brownsville, on the morning of August 23, last, with intent to collect the insurance thereon. The case was begun Tuesday morning and was on the jury at 3:20 p.m. yesterday afternoon. The verdict was returned at 5 o'clock. On account of the complicated nature of the case, a great amount of time was consumed in arguing points of law. The jury was instructed that the offense was a misdemeanor and as such it should have disposed of the case. This it failed to do. Now, the costs will be disposed of remains yet for the court to rule.

Bonds in four cases were forfeited before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen Wednesday morning when it appeared that the defendants had failed to appear for trial. P. C. BAGGALEY MINE OF
FRICK COMPANY IS WORKED OUT

Twenty-five years ago, in 1897, Edward Casey, of Youngstown, hauled the first load of coal out of the Baggageley mine. Wednesday Mr. Casey hauled the last load of coal out of the mine, and the Baggageley works was closed down with the coal interests of the H. C. Frick Coke Company exhausted.

For a quarter of a century, the Baggageley works gave employment to approximately 400 men.

All of the employees at Baggageley have been provided with employment at other works, by the H. C. Frick Coke Company—Hostetter, Marguerite, United, Dorothy, and Lement.

The houses at Baggageley for the most part, will be occupied by men employed at the nearby works. Hostetter and Whiffney.

The Baggageley works was started by Ralph Baggageley, who was financed by the Puritan Coke Company. The mine was not very successful, and some years later Mr. Baggageley failed.

The Puritan Coke Company then leased the works to the American Coke Company, a subsidiary of the American Steel & Wire Company.

When the American Steel & Wire Company became a part of the United States Steel Corporation in 1902, the Baggageley plant was taken over by the H. C. Frick Coke Company, and was run on a royalty basis.

James Pettigrew, superintendent at Baggageley, was first employed by the H. C. Frick Coke Company in the engineering department. He was in charge of the plant since 1918, as superintendent. It is expected that he will now be transferred to some other plant.

Edward Casey, who hauled the last load of coal out of the mine has been holding the entire period of its operation.

The future of the property is in the hands of those who control the holdings of the old Puritan Coke Company.

In the presence of members of his family, Civil War comrades and a few other friends, J. R. Balsley, prominent resident of Conneltsville, celebrated the 70th anniversary of his birth yesterday afternoon at his home in North First street, West Side. Commander W. P. Clark of the William F. Kurtz Post No. 104, Grand Army of the Republic, of which Mr. Balsley is a member, presided and after congratulating their comrade the veterans, assisted by Rev. C. H. Richmond, pastor of the Greenwald Methodist Episcopal Church, who gave a very interesting talk, presented a very entertaining program. The menu consisted of creamed chicken, hot biscuit, potato salad, cake, coffee, ice cream and candy. Sixteen were seated at the tables and their ages averaged over 50. Conversation the table was an attractive birthday cake enriched with 70 candles denoting the age of the honored guest. Curtailment Not Prolonged To Extent Expected, But Some Restraint is Being Applied

Gafas Last Week Do Little More Than Regain Loss Of Previous Week.

DESPITE MORE OVENS IN

Smaller Operators and Those With Heavy Overhead Apprehensive Over Lower Price Tendencies; Getting Too Close for Comfort is Feeling.

From The Weekly Courier.

The curtailment in coke production during the week ended December 2, to which the Thanksgiving holiday, falling off in car supply and the blowing out of two furnaces contributed, was not prolonged into last week to the extent anticipated.

There was a noticeable restraint, however, as measured by the capacity of active ovens to turn out coke. The fact that the region did only a little better than regain the loss of the preceding week, notwithstanding there was a gain of more than 400 by the number of producing ovens, shows that the operators sensed the desirability of keeping the situation well in hand. This precaution was exercised exclusively by the merchant operators who much more quickly feel the effects of changes in independent blast furnace needs and the reactions of the market.

The furnace producers, unaffected by these fluctuations in demand and prices, are more concerned in maintaining a regular rate of operation with such gradual expansions as the interests they supply may require. The furnace ovens gained 250 tons more than they had lost during the preceding week, but the merchants advanced their quota of production by a gain of 2,440 tons. The total increase was 2,690 tons, making the output of the week 202,810 tons, or 1,700 tons larger than that of the pre-Thanksgiving week, which was the record of the year to that time.

The present situation is being viewed with more or less apprehension by the smaller operators and those whose costs of production are not susceptible of much further, if any, reduction. With the present prices of coal and coke coming into uncomfortable close proximity to the cost of production, any delay in the independent or fuel-efficient car supply and other things which prevent steady operation, increase the overhead portion to such an amount that the margin between loss and a bare profit is in danger of being eliminated. For this reason applying measures to restrict output becomes an act of self-defense.

This is a condition, not a theory, confronting more formidably those operators who are dependent upon a single line of railway for their car supply, hence their present concern over the developments in the trade which portend an era of somewhat lower prices than have prevailed during the past few months. They are taking what comfort they can from the hope that the present softening in prices is but temporary and, indeed, it appears to be in view of the possibility that coke consumption will be appreciably increased after the advent of the new year.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, December 2, was 202,810 tons, credited to the two districts in the following proportions: Connellsville, 126,780, an increase of 6,319 tons; Lower Connellsville, 76,030, an increase of 2,730 tons, or a total increase of 9,049 tons, as compared with a net decrease of 7,330 tons during the preceding week. By interests the production was: Merchants 128,000, a gain of 2,440 tons, as compared with a loss of 7,350 tons and a gain of 20 tons respectively during the week ended December 2.

The furnace plants contributed 187 and the merchant plants 237 to the 424 ovens added to the list during the week. The H. C. Frick Coke Company added 107; independent furnace plants, 80; W. J. Rainey, Inc., 43; other merchant operators, 134. The individual additions were as follows: Furnace: Continental No. 2, two; Leif, 30; Lemont No. 2, 12; Redstone, 10; United, 10; Yorkrun, 17; Geneva, 10; Orient, 20.

Merchant: Fort Hill, two; Mount Braddock, Ave; Oliver No. 1, 49; Oliver No. 2, four; Oliver No. 3, 40; Revere, 37; Herbert, 20; Hoover, 10; Katharine, 10; Luzerne, 12; Russell, 41; Old Home, five; Shamrock, 10. Russell and Luzerne were fired up for the first time for over a year; Oliver No. 3 for the first time since the strike forced suspension of operations.

The estimated production of coke in not tons in the Connellsville and Lower Connellsville districts, by weeks, with the total compared with the corresponding week of 1921, is shown in the following:

When Baby Complains.

THERE ARE MANY WAYS a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from his normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. All mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of a baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved. And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a baby. Castoria always bears the signature of Dr. J. C. Williams.

THURSDAY EVE'G, DEC. 14, 1933

NOT THE TIME TO INCREASE CITY TAXATION.

When deliberating on the items comprising the municipal budget for 1934 it will be the part of wisdom for the members of the City Council to keep two things clearly and definitely in mind.

The first is the fact that the present administration is committed to a policy of economy in public expenditures. The second, and no less important, is that the taxpayers are by no means in the mood to view with equanimity or favor any proposition looking to an increase in the tax burden, for many are not in a position to pay higher taxes without positive inconvenience or discomfort.

The people of the city appreciate the desire of the members of the City Council to improve their respective departments, just as citizens themselves desire improvements in the tax burden, for many are not in a position to pay higher taxes without positive inconvenience or discomfort.

Such a rule has equally apt application to the affairs of the city. Everybody realizes that many things could be done in the line of improvement, but if we had the money and could use it without resultant hardship, not having the money the city is in precisely the same position as industrial or business enterprises which contemplate expansion when expenses are already absorbing all available funds.

Why have we then, allowed what is perhaps the most vital phase of life to become debased by overelaboration and tardiness of procedure and hysteria of method? Why have we clogged our courts with red tape and turned the solemn business of administering justice into something bordering on comic opera?

The remedy lies with bench and bar, and it is gratifying to note that a desire for reform is manifesting itself. But before the gentlemen of the long robe effect the reforms that conditions call for, the public must show its disapproval of the practices that are turning criminal trials into legal three-ring circuses.

GET UP.

In the good old days of the long ago in the home unbroken we used to know time. When ever a vacant chair we kept And never one tear of grief we'd wept, Then we were roused from our cozy bed.

By father who shouted "You sleepy heads! Get up! Get up!" as he passed each door, "Get up at once, for I'll call no more!"

"Yes, in a minute," we'd wake to say, "But just as soon as he'd passed along, Singing a snatch of his morning song, We'd all fall back where the bed was warm.

In the place which fitted each youthful form, And so to sleep till there came a shout: "Get up, or I'll come and pull you out!"

He'd stand at the foot of the stairs and call: "Get up! You sleepy heads, one and all!" Your mother's been down for an hour or two, The day is here and there's work to do.

Then he'd be trouble up there if you don't jump out And promptly begin to stir about! Then sometimes he'd come with a rush and sweep The covers away and banish sleep.

Who knows when the last long sleep comes on And the mornings of earthly life have gone, And we who were children so long ago Are wrapped in number the angels.

Perhaps we shall open our drowsy eyes In a world of wonder and glad surprise And find at the foot of the golden stair The Father, waiting and calling there, (Copyright, 1933, by Edgar A. Guest.)

The budget makers must not forget that the taxpayers refuse to budge from their position that the present is not time to put a bugle in the budget.

It did not require the refusal by Turkey's representatives at the Lausanne conference to assign any part of their country as a national home for the Armenians to prove their undying hatred for these Christian people. Nothing short of complete extermination has been Turkey's policy toward the Armenians for centuries and the so-called progressive nation climates are just as blood-thirsty as the suitcases they have replaced.

Dropping a good sized bill into the Salvation Army Christmas kettles will make the home pot boil merrily for you and all the household on Christmas Day.

Connellsville stores have everything you can possibly need for yourself or friends for Christmas. Why go elsewhere?

Reform in Our Courts

The Saturday Evening Post.

Legal dilatoriness and overstraining have brought court procedure to such a pass in this country that it is not at all an uncommon thing for the selection of a jury to consume three or four days. A recent malodorous murder trial, which had to run through three weeks before the defendant—we almost said the hero—walked forth a free man, took up weeks on each of its hearings. First there were days of struggle over the selection of the twelve, then, endless examination and cross-examination of witnesses, legal victories and defeats over points of procedure and little odds and ends of evidence, and finally hours of oratory from the legal big-birds on both sides before the three and probably befogged jurors were locked up to reach a decision. It is not strange that they failed to do so after the first two trials.

There is no excuse, particularly for the time wasted in the selection of jurors. It is no excess of zeal in the cause of justice that leads to the examination of upwards of a hundred names before twelve can be agreed upon. The defense is straining to find types who might be expected to condone violence or to wax sentimental on the score of sex. The prosecutor must be looking for jurors most likely to convict. For the cause of justice, that is needed is twelve honest, reasonably intelligent, run-of-the-mill citizens. The humor of the situation lies in the fact that after days of haggling and elimination the jury assembled probably assays just about the same as the first twelve or so drawn out would have done.

A murder case in a British court will be completed in the time that we take to select a jury. Even the most sensational seldom takes more than three days. No one suggests that the defense fail of a fair and adequate hearing in the British court. In fact it seems reasonable that the jurors can obtain a clearer conception of the salient points in a three-day hearing than they are likely to carry away after two weeks of reiteration of evidence, legal skirmishing and close-range oratory.

There is the same difference in what follows the trial. A day of sentence or a new trial can be obtained in a British court only for good and sufficient reason—the finding of new evidence, the uncovering of perjury or the demonstration of an error of procedure bearing directly on the verdict. Action is always prompt, and a few weeks' time will suffice to settle it positively one way or the other. Here in the United States legal addressness can carry a case along for months or even years, from one appeal to another, sometimes based on almost trivial claims of error or misdirection. Granted clever and energetic counsel and the resources for a long fight, and the defendant can stave off the day of reckoning beyond all reason.

It is hard to understand, America is the home of hustle; Americans subscribe to the cult of the short-cut; we invented big business and efficiency and fast trains and elevators and nearly everything that tends to expedite and simplify life and business. Why have we then, allowed what is perhaps the most vital phase of life to become debased by overelaboration and tardiness of procedure and hysteria of method? Why have we clogged our courts with red tape and turned the solemn business of administering justice into something bordering on comic opera?

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Shave! Here's an Old-Time Remedy That Anybody Can Apply

The user Sage and Sulphur for restoring Med. gray hair to its natural color goes back to grandmother's time. It is used to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect.

But, growing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wax's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, taking one stand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two it becomes lustrously dark and glossy. Advertisment.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry
For real effectiveness, this old remedy can be used by all.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old, home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Take a glass bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add pinex granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint/saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more complete, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children love it.

Now can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in the air passages. It promptly loosens all dry, tight coughs, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary cough or chest cold, and it is also splendid for whooping, croup, hoarseness, and bronchitis.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for coughs and chest ailments. It is used by doctors and nurses, ask your pharmacist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything less. Genuine Pinex is absolutely reliable, and is money refunded. The Great Lakes Seven Orchestra, which had an open night, members being friends of some of the legion boys, stopped over here and furnished the music.

The object of the meeting was to get all interested in a community building which the boys of the Legion feel is what Meyersdale should have, and while no other organization would take it up the Legion, with the cooperation of the citizens will foster it. This was heartily endorsed by all present. A general discussion was held as to ways and means of raising the money.

The object of the meeting was to get all interested in a community building which the boys of the Legion feel is what Meyersdale should have, and while no other organization would take it up the Legion, with the cooperation of the citizens will foster it. This was heartily endorsed by all present. A general discussion was held as to ways and means of raising the money.

After this the social part of the evening was taken up. It consisted of lunch served by the boys. Rev. C. C. Fisher offered prayer. Lloyd Keller acted as toastmaster and called upon members who responded. Dr. Lichy was the first speaker, followed by Rev. Fisher, J. J. Brady, Raymond Cordry, post commander W. S. Livingston, Congressman S. A. Kendall, R. D. Pfahler and Assemblyman P. D. Clifton. The Great Lakes Seven Orchestra, which had an open night, members being friends of some of the legion boys, stopped over here and furnished the music.

CAPE STILL HOLDS FAVOR

Flowing Wrap Has Countless Friends Among the Women; Many Are in Bright Coloring.

"What about capes?" was an oft-repeated question at the beginning of the season. For the cape has many a friend and no enemies among women. True, it seemed to be holding an over-long reign in the fashion world, the designers agreed that it was time to displace it with some other wrap, but the fact that women bought the capes and asked for them insistently gave them a place in the fashion world. For evening the cape is supreme, it is fashioned in fur, in velvets, broadens metal cloth and fur, in metallics, in tulle and all kindred soft-pile fabrics.

A great many velvet capes have yokes shirred or smocked in deep points. A lovely green one seen recently was shirred to represent a chrysanthemum, another black velvet cape was shirred yoke depth and finished by a padded roll about the hem. Short capes (meaning hip-length and knee-length capes) are often a part of the smart coat-dress costume. The cape of metal brocade is trimmed in deep fur bands as this fabric does not take the soft folds of velvet.

The bright shades of velvet capes, orange, purple and green give a delightful dash of color to evening affairs. These capes are lined with silver cloth veiled in chiffon or crepe of contrasting hue. Manteaux, too, is one of the much chosen fabrics for evening wraps. Capes appear in many variations from straight ones gathered very full to circular capes of graceful line, and capes that gather into a band, giving the effect of being gathered into a puff at the hem line.

A SIN TO LET HAIR FALL OUT

35c "Dandergine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Hurry! It's your duty. Each day you see a little more hair falling out and you are making no effort to avoid baldness. What a pity! Pulling hair means your hair is weak, sick—possibly dandruff is strangling it, or the hair root pores in the scalp are not firm and tight, thus wasting the hair-growing oils. Dandergine almost instantly stops falling hair of men and women and cleans every particle of dandruff away, then the hair takes on new life, vigor and strength to grow strong, thick and long. Dandergine is delightful—not sticky or greasy. Go to any drug store now and get a bottle. Use it. Have healthy, beautiful hair and lots of it.—Advertisement.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

(Causes Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat.)

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc. are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The digestive stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food causes the disagreeable symptoms which excite stomach sufferer. Knows it well. Artificially digested food is not needed in such cases and may actually harm. Try taking a quarter glass of water and instead get from any drug store a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia and take it as suggested in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no purpose gas or pain. Bismarck Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach. Inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advertisement.

GAS WAS FIRST PUBLIC UTILITY

Substance Put to Use in 1792
Spurs Modern Progress.

FEARED AS A "WILD SPIRIT"

Artificial Illuminant Discovered in 1808—First Public Street to Be Lighted With Gas Was Pall Mall, London, in 1807—Futile Efforts of Alchemists to Change Base Metals Into Gold Led to Accidental Discovery of Artificial Gas.

The utilization of gas for lighting marked the most important step in the progress of modern illumination, according to the Illinois Committee on Public Utility.

Gas was discovered about the middle of the seventeenth century, but it was not until the late eighteenth century that man learned how to make it serve a useful purpose, members of the committee stated.

Gas was the first public utility. Later came electricity, the telephone and the electric railway. These have made possible in less than a century greater progress than in all the thousands of years of civilization preceding.

Alchemists' Search for Riches.
Man's eternal search for riches and the futile endeavors of alchemists to change base metals into gold led to the accidental discovery of artificial gas. Although alchemy was a fruitless effort to bring alive a spirit of inquiry regarding the details that led to many important discoveries.

John Baptista van Helmont of Brussels studied and practiced medicine and later turned to chemistry and research work in the seventeenth century. He was the first to experiment with gases in 1600. He discovered that they yielded what he described as "a wild spirit." He found this "spirit" could be produced by means of combustion, fermentation and the action of acids on limestone.

So significant and elusive was van Helmont's discovery that he named it "gas," the old German word for spirit. It was nearly 100 years after van Helmont's discovery before practical steps were taken to harness this elusive spirit.

Natural gas was found in the seventeenth century in England, one of the first descriptions of it being that of Thomas Stanley in which he mentions that his station was directed to what was considered to be a spring "where the water did burn like oyle" and "did boyle and heave like water in a pot." On investigation he found this "to arise from a strong breath, as it were, which emitted on the approach of a lighted candle" and "did burn bright and vigorous."

Found "Spirit" Would Burn.
Dr. John Clayton, a Yorkshire minister with a predilection for the sciences, robbed the spirit of some of its elusive qualities by experiments between 1690 and 1697. Heating "shelly con" in a closed vessel he found that a "spirit" which issued out caught fire at the flame of a candle. He amused his friends by collecting the gas in bladders and picking holes in them with a pin, then lighting the gas with a candle.

William Murdoch, in 1792, by distilling coal through an iron retort and conducting the gas through 70 feet of tinued and coppered tubes, succeeded in lighting his home at Redruth, in Cornwall. Later he built an apparatus on a larger scale and lighted the factory of James Watt, developer of the steam engine, for whom he was construction and erection engineer.

Murdoch was regarded as a queer young man. He was addicted to wearing wooden hats, and also made a lantern by fixing a tube in the neck of a gas-filled bladder. The sight of him wandering about the streets at night with this strange beacon filled the neighborhood with dismay, and some of the good people suspected him of being in league with Lucifer.

On May 18, 1804, Frederick Albert Winsor, a German, obtained the first English patent for gas lighting purposes. The first public street lighting with gas was in Pall Mall, London, January 28, 1807. In April, 1812, parliament granted a charter to "The London and Westminster Gas, Light and Coke Company" and thus the first gas company in the world came into being.

RADIO PROGRAMS IN JAPAN

Station at Tokyo Begins to Broadcast Them.

A Tokyo company has been permitted by the Japanese government to carry broadcast radio programs. News, weather reports, stock exchange prices and music are sent out daily.

The department of communications has released its censorship. The company represents several American radio firms. Small factories are making sending and receiving sets. Osaka will be the next city to have a station, and by January 1 it is hoped to have stations in the twelve larger cities of the empire.

KNEW HOW TO RUN HIS CAR

Motorman Resented the Help of the Truck Driver, and Then Repented.

A street car approached a busy downtown corner, the motorman changing his gear. A truck driver stopped from in front of his machine parked near the track. He waved reassuringly at the motorman and measured with his hands to signal sufficient clearance.

The motorman resented the truck driver's role of traffic director. He growled his resentment to a platform passenger.

"I don't need nobody to show me how to run a car. I been runnin' one long enough to know when I can get by."

He changed angrily toward the next corner where other trucks were parked.

"I suppose some fool will step out here to tell me how to run my car," he snapped. He glanced contemptuously at a truck as his car glided toward it. But there was no "fool" to give directions this time and, to the very great astonishment and chagrin of the motorman who knew "how to run 'em," his car sidwheeled the truck—Kansas City Star.

A Kind Wish.
When Jean went to her little neighbor's to visit she often talked to the grandmother of the house. "I have a grandmother, too," she would say, "but she's in heaven."

And she and the grandmother of the house were good friends until one day the grandmother was cross. She scolded the two little girls for leaving the screen door open, for walking in a flower bed and dropping crumbs on the floor.

The two youngsters sought refuge on the porch. Grandmother started to follow them there a little later, to try to make up. She noticed the necessity of doing so, for when she reached the door she heard Jean say, "Ruth, I wish your grandmother was yella!" my grandmother today."—Indianapolis News.

Novel Burglar Alarm.
As a protection against burglary or theft, an alarm signal, described in Popular Mechanics magazine, has been devised which is adaptable to many uses. In size, it is only a little larger than a big watch, which it resembles. It is loaded with ten blank cartridges which are fired by a fuse on the inside of the device. In case of danger it is only necessary to release a safety catch on the face of the device and drop or throw the signal, keeping hold of the finger ring, from which the alarm is released when fired.

The Truthful Trade-Mark of the Gulbransen

A baby's hand on a pedal of the Gulbransen causes it to play. The trade-mark tells a truthful story.

It is the exclusive Gulbransen features—the fine craftsmanship—the patented design—that make "easy to play" a fact.

When buying a Gulbransen, you are protected as to price. Mark this: no matter in what town or from what dealer you buy a Gulbransen, the price paid will be $700, $800, $995 or $1295, according to the style selected. FASHION NOTES OF INTEREST

Canes, Venetian blues, beaver shades, brown and black are colorings of interest in smart little rolled trim veils. Hats for girls of all ages.

A cape effect in one coat style has the cape section secured through hand-worked scallops to the coat body, the under portion and sleeve tops being of silk.

Persian influence is noticeable in the colors utilized for trimmings, and also in the pointed duragans used for linings or, in some instances, for an entire wrap.

The brims of hats are wide at the sides and the trimming shows a decided preference for big pompons of soft shaded ribbons or ostrich tips curling over the brims and resting on the hair at the left side.

Bunches of cherries in black velvet applied on the coat front and sleeve, with cherry stems and leaves embroidered in a light delicate green. Large pearl buttons and buttonholes form the trim on another.

The broad belted, perfectly round, straight crowned sailor has returned, and is as yet only seen in the most exclusive salons. This sailor was made of heavy cotton crepe lined with soft-colored chiffon over a metal tissue of tulle, of chiffon velvet or of the felt. The brim is perfectly straight and flat and corded around the outer edge with two rows of narrow soutache, cords of the same material as the hat or fine metal braid. The crown is swathed in fine turban folds of the same material or some metal or figured brocade.

Top-Notch Bout Will Open Boxing Season Here Next Monday; Carter Meets Lux

Local Colored Lad Will Have Six Proposition on Hands.

GOOD PRELIMINARY BOUTS

Eight fans of Connelleville and vicinity may expect to see one of the best fights staged here on next Monday night held by the New Fayette Athletic Club.

The Fayette Association has arranged a top-notch program for the West Side arena that should prove the hit of the winter season. Billy Carter, the clever, hard-hitting West Side welterweight, who faces Freddie Lux of McKeesport in the main 10-rounder, is in the best of condition, having gone through strenuous workouts during the past month with Tom Barton, Charlie Kuhn, Young Rickie and Charlie Maloney. Carter's first and only fight is to become the welterweight champion of the world and anticipates to take Freddie Lux measure. As for Lux he has been going at a fast pace lately. He defeated Willie Gradwell of Newark, N. J., several months ago and several weeks back gave Eddie Shevlin of New York, who has fought Benny Leonard and other leading boxers, a putting that he will never forget and has decided over Tony Zili, Dick De Sanders, Johnny Tanner, Dutch Chandler, Allentown, and many of the best boys in the country his weight.

Young Maligan of Pittsburgh will battle with Eddie Rowland of McKeesport in the semi-main event. In the second bout of the evening, Young Pasquale of Dunbar, promising Italian boxer who has made many brilliant showings in Uniontown, will meet Young Hanlon from Trenton. In the curtain raiser Young Sleds will meet Kid Boyd. Both are local lads and very promising in the fight game.

Tornadoes Are Preparing For Brownsville

Coach B. C. Jones has announced that special cars will likely be chartered for the game with Brownsville on Saturday. The cars will probably be scheduled to leave here about 12:30 o'clock.

The Tornado line-up will be a stiff one for Connelleville team. At times during the season some other men have been on the outfit but only for a game and none is eligible under the agreement with the River Town outfit.

It is practically certain that John Egan, Douglass University, and Carl Rebel, Penn State, will be referee and umpire respectively.

INDIANAPOLIS SIGNS KIRKE

Hard-Hitting First Baseman Is Traded for Tex Corporation-Led League in Batting.

Jayson Kirke, first baseman of the Louisville Colonels, who last year set a world's record for hits made during a regular season, has been traded to the Indianapolis club of the American association. The Colonels receive Tex Covington, first baseman of the Indianapolis team, in exchange.

Kirke never has batted under 300. Since joining the Colonels seven years ago. Last year he led the league with a mark of .386, while in the past season he batted .365.

WHITEY NEALE IS "FIND"

When Ted Jones, coach of the Yale football team, needed a man to fill the space left vacant by the injury to O'Hearn, left halfback, he searched the school for some temporary find. Fortunately, he came upon Whitey Neale, brother to Greasy Neale, coach of W. & J., and Cincinnati baseball player, and was glad to discover that Neale could fill O'Hearn's shoes as well as the Yale halfback. Neale, Neale proved himself one of the fastest men ever to play for old Eli. Photograph shows Whitey Neale.

NAP LAJOIE LEARNS GOLF IS DIFFICULT

Ex-Baseball Star Finds Way Up Is Pretty Hard.

Experience Has Taught King of Key-stone Batters to Pay More Attention to Movement of Wrist and Actual Accuracy.

Nap Lajoie, former second baseman and manager of the Cleveland ball club and champion batsman of the big league, is finding the sledding in golf no easier than the hundreds of other duffers.

Nap, one of the regular visitors at Highland Park, the municipal links, had an awful time eventually breaking 100, and has just recently mastered the trick of negotiating 18 holes somewhat in the 80s. But the ex-king of swat is advancing rapidly.

When Larry first started to play regularly he whalloped the ball for further orders. He apparently had in mind his home run clouts of the rare old days of baseball. Putting all his might strength in the swings occasionally did give him a drive of 250 yards or more, but the ball was seldom straight. Invariably he hooked or sliced into the rough, and he was almost constantly in difficulty.

Experience taught Larry to forget all about supreme power in hitting the sphere and to attach more stress to the movement of the wrists and actual accuracy. It taught him also that the main thing is to keep one's eye on the ball from the start of the upward swing to the follow through.

Lajoie is driving 'em out around the 175 mark quite consistently now and his shots are more frequently than otherwise straight down the course. Like all beginners he is bothered with such combinations as a good day with the woods and off-color with the irons, and vice versa, but all his associates admit that Nap is getting there and at a real lively clip.

JOE WOOD AS COACH

The photograph is of Joe Wood, right holder of the Cleveland Americans, who has been signed as coach of the Yale varsity pitchers. Wood was known as "Smokey Joe" when twirling for the Boston Americans some years ago. But his arm went bad, and he became an outfielder. Besides having charge of the Yale pitchers, Wood will take hold of the Yale freshman team.

RICHARDS GOES TO COLUMBIA

Youthful Tennis Star Expected to Matriculate in February, Will Strengthen Team.

Vincent Richards is expected to matriculate at Columbia university in February. Richards prepared at Fordham prep. The youthful tennis star will strengthen the New York institution's tennis squad, which includes Frank Anderson, holder of the Canadian singles championship.

Stabbed by Neuritis

Many people suffer attacks by this arch-dread, commonly called "nerve inflammation." The first warning is usually a sharp, stabbing pain, which may come and go or be constant. You may feel it in the shoulder, neck, forearm, snail of the back, or down the thigh and leg to the foot. It is sometimes mistaken for sciatica, rheumatism or neuritis, which often end in paralysis.

No matter where you have nerve pain or what caused them, you can get quick relief without using narcotics or poison. Just apply Tysol over the part that hurts, and in a few minutes the pain will be gone.

Tysol is absorbed through the pores of the skin. It has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves, gradually helping to restore them to healthy condition.

Don't suffer any longer. Price 4¢ at Lauchlin Drug Co., 1000 E. 10th St., Chicago, 400 S. 10th St., San Francisco. Advertisement.

BETTER LIGHT LESS EXPENSE
Ask the oil men where the kerosene you burn comes from. If it says "Pennsylvania," it's unadulterated Pennsylvania—you will have a cleaner, brighter, whiter light that costs less. It does make a difference what oil pools supply the crude oil from which is distilled the kerosene you burn. Waverly or "All Pennsylvania" oil is odorless, smokeless and safer, as well as most economical.

Cordova Leather Goods

What the word "Sterling" means to silver is what the word "Cordova" means to leather. All Cordova goods are made from genuine Spanish Steer Hide, Russian Calf or genuine Seal, and all leathers are of African Goat Skin.

Like in all other good lines, imitations have crept in and often these cheaper stamped goods are sold by dealers as "Cordova." There is one protection however and that is that each piece is stamped with this trade mark.

The BLIND MAN'S EYES

By William MacHarg
Edwin Palmer

ILLUSTRATIONS BY
R. H. Longstone

Eaton stared at Santone, fascinated; who had been looking vaguely at him, half formed with himself, was becoming definite, tangible, under the blind man's reasoning. His hands closed instinctively, in his emotion "What do you mean?"

"You understand already," Santone asserted. "The attack made on me was meant for you. Someone stealing through the cars from the front to the rear of the train and carrying in his mind the location of Section Three in the third car, struck through the curtains by mistake at me instead of you. Who was that?"

"I don't know," Eaton answered. "You mean you prefer to shield him?"

"Shield him?" "That is what you are doing, is it not? For, even if you don't know the man directly, you know in whose cause and under whose direction he murdered Warden—and why and for whom he is attempting to murder you."

Eaton remained silent. In his intensity Santone had lifted himself from his pillow. "Who is that man?" he challenged. "And what is that connection between you and me which, when the attack found and disabled me instead of you, told him that—in spite of his mistake—his result had been accomplished?"

"I don't know," Eaton answered. "I was dying, a reputation of the attack against you was unnecessary."

Eaton knew that he had grown very pale. Harriet must be aware of the effect Santone's words had on him, but he did not dare look at her now to see how much she was comprehending.

"I don't understand," he fought to compose himself. "It is perfectly plain," Santone said patiently. "It was believed at first that I had been fatally hurt, it was even reported at one time—I understand—that I was dead; only intimate friends have been informed of my actual condition. Yesterday, for the first time, the newspapers announced the certainty of my recovery, and today an attack is made on you. They did not hesitate to attack you in sight of my daughter."

"But—" "You are merely challenging my deductions," Will you reply to my questions—tell me the connection between us—who you are?"

"Come here!" "What?" said Eaton. "Come here—close to me, beside the bed."

Eaton hesitated and then obeyed. "Stand over!"

Eaton stooped, and the blind man's hands seized him. Instantly Eaton withdrew.

"Wait!" Santone warned. "If you do not stay, I shall call help." One hand went to the bell beside his bed. Harriet had risen; she met Eaton's gaze warily and nodded to him to comply. He bent again over the bed. He felt the blind man's sensitive fingers searching his features, his head, his throat. Eaton gazed at Santone's face while the fingers were examining him; he could see that Santone was merely making confirmation of an impression already gained from what he had been told him about Eaton. Santone showed nothing more than this confirmation; certainly he did not recognize Eaton. More than this, Eaton could not tell.

"Now your hands," Santone ordered. Eaton extended one hand and then the other; the blind man felt over them from wrist to the tips of the fingers; then he let himself sink back against the pillows, absorbed in thought.

"You may go," Santone said at last. "Go?" Eaton asked.

"You may leave the room. Blatchford will meet you downstairs."

Santone reached for the house telephone beside his bed—received and transmitted on one light beam—and gave directions to have Blatchford await Eaton in the hall below.

Eaton was slightly frightened by the revelation he just had had of Santone's clear, impulsive reasoning regarding him, for none of the blind man's deductions about him had been wrong—all had been the exact, though incomplete truth. It was clear to him that Santone was close—much closer even than Santone himself yet appreciated—to knowing Eaton's identity. It was even probable that one single additional fact—the discovery, for instance, that Miss Davis was the source of the second telegram received by Eaton on the train—would reveal everything to Santone. And Eaton was not certain that Santone, even without any new information, would not reach the truth unaided at any moment. So Eaton knew that he himself must act before this happened. But so long as he was safe in Santone's study was he locked or was left open only while someone was in the room with it, he could not act, until he had received help from outside; and he had not yet received that help; he could not hurry it or even tell how soon it was likely to come.

His mind reviewed, almost instantaneously, these considerations. He glanced again at Harriet; her eyes, this time, met his, but she looked away immediately. As he went toward the door, she made no move to accompany him. He went out without speaking and closed the inner and the outer doors behind him; then he went down to Blatchford. For several minutes after Eaton had left the room Santone thought in silence.

"Where are you, Harriet?" he asked at last.

"She knew it was not necessary to answer him, but merely to move so that he could tell her position, she moved slightly, and his slightest eyes shifted at once to where she stood.

"How did he act?" Santone asked. She reviewed swiftly the conversation, supplementing his blind impressions of Eaton's manner with what she herself had seen.

"What have been your impressions of Eaton's previous social condition, daughter?" he asked. "You have talked with him, been with him—both on the train and here. Have you been able to determine what sort of people he has been accustomed to mix with? Have his friends been business men? Professional men? Society people?"

"The deep and unconcealed note of trouble in her father's voice," she answered, "has been with me every time and every occasion. She answered his question, 'I don't know, father.'"

"In what way?" "You must find a way. I shall tell you how to find it."

bothered with it just now; I will try to give his whole attention to this present inquiry. You yourself will assume charge of the correspondence of which I speak, daughter."

"Yes, father. Do not want anything else now."

CHAPTER XIV

Donald Avery is Moody. Harriet went down the stairs into the study. She passed through the study into the main part of the house and found Donald and went into her father's study.

She closed and fastened the door and after glancing about the room she removed the books in front of the wall safe to the right of the door.

She looked at the books and found them as she had left them. She looked at the books and found them as she had left them.

husband had been far from her. And strangely she now realized that it was not the attack on Mr. Warden and his father—overwhelming with horror as these had been—which were bringing that appreciation home to her. It was her understanding now that the attack was not meant for her father but for Eaton.

Though Harriet had never believed that Eaton had been concerned in the attack upon her father, her denial of it had been checked and stifled because he could not even defend himself.

She had not known what to think, she had seemed to herself to be waiting with her thoughts in obedience, until he should be cleared, she had tried not to let herself think more about Eaton than was necessary.

Though he was involved with her father in some way, she refused to believe he was against her father, but clearly he was not with him. How could he be involved, then, unless the injury he had suffered was some such act of man against man as these lotteries and statements represented?

She looked carefully through all the contents of the envelopes, but she could not find anything which helped her.

She pushed the letters away, then, and not thinking Mr. Warden, who appeared to have known more about Eaton than anyone else, had taken Eaton's side, it was because he had been going to help Eaton that Mr. Warden had been killed. Would not her father be ready to help Eaton then, if he knew as much about him as Mr. Warden had known? But Mr. Warden, apparently, had kept what he knew even from his own wife; and Eaton was now keeping it from everyone—her father included. She felt that her father had understood and appreciated all this long before herself—that it was the reason for his attitude toward Eaton on the train and in part the cause of his considerate treatment of him all through.

So, instead of being outraged by Eaton's manner to her father, she felt an impulse of feeling toward him, a feeling which she tried to explain to herself as sympathy. But it was not just sympathy, she would not say even to herself what it was.

She got up suddenly and went to the door and looked into the hall; a servant came to her.

"Is Mr. Avery still with Mr. Santone?" she asked.

"No, Miss Santone, he has gone out."

"Thank you."

She went back, and bundling the correspondence together as it had been before, she removed the books from a shelf to the left of the door, slid back another panel and revealed a second wall-safe corresponding to the one to the right of the door from a which she had taken the papers. The combination of this second safe was known only to her father and herself. She put the envelopes into it, closed it, and replaced the books. Then she went to her father's desk, took from a drawer a long typewritten report of which he had asked her to prepare a digest, and read it through; conscientiously concentrating, she began her work. At three she heard Avery's motor, and went to the study door and looked out as he entered the hall.

"What have you found Don?" she inquired.

"Nothing yet, Harry."

"You got no trace of them?"

"No; too many motors pass on that road for the car to be recalled particularly. I've started what inquiries are possible and arranged to have the road watched in case they come back this way."

He went past her and up to her father's study. She returned to the study and put away her work.

Dinner was served in the great Jacobean dining room, with walls paneled to the high ceiling, logs blazing in the big stone fireplace. As they seated themselves she noted that Avery seemed moody and uncommunicative, go nothing, clear; had irritated and disturbed him; and as the meal progressed, he vented his irritation upon Eaton by affronting him more openly by word and look than he had ever done before in her presence. She was the more surprised at this, because she knew that Eaton had been given the same instructions as her father the same instructions as had been given herself to learn what ever was possible of Eaton's former position in life.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"HURRICANE GAL," showing today and tomorrow at this theatre, is a First National production with Dorothy Phillips, the popular screen actress in one of the best roles of her screen career. Miss Phillips, who will be remembered for her remarkable work in "Manhattan-Madness," a massive First National attraction directed by Mr. Holubar, has an unusual and particularly fitting part in "Hurricane Gal." She is cast as an unconventional maid of the sea, who, inheriting a smuggling schooner from her father, takes command of it and rules with the same iron hand and ruthlessness which characterized her father. The production is filled with thrills, but they are not of the lurid, "dime novel" variety. There is logic and plausibility behind each, and the spectacular effects which follow in rapid succession cause the spectator to gasp. "Hurricane Gal" is a big rugged sea story, and a three masted schooner, a torpedo boat destroyer and aeroplanes and hydroplanes have been used by the director. The characters are strong men—and women—and they are portrayed by an exceptionally capable cast. It is a picture you ought to see, if you relish romance and adventure. It is one of the most entertaining productions which it has been our fortune to witness in a long time.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE HOUND OF THE BASKERVILLES," one of the biggest pictures of the year, provides splendid entertainment today at this theatre. Thousands of lovers of detective stories are already familiar with the experiences of Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson in Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous mystery tale, "The Hound of the Baskervilles." Hundreds of them, perhaps, reside right here in this community. To them and to the public at large, as well, it will be of surpassing interest to know that the screen version of this ever-popular mystery is being shown at this theatre. "The Hound of the Baskervilles" still stands as one of the most weird and thrilling of Sir Arthur's masterpieces of detective fiction. In the screen version all of the thrillingly dramatic episodes are developed and interest and suspense is maintained at high tension throughout. The hunting down of the band of criminals who had plotted against the Baskervilles; the death-struggle with the massive, flaming hound that spreads terror through the countryside; the death of one of the arch-villains in the bog and the many other climaxes place this greatest of all Sherlock Holmes stories in a class by itself.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE THREE MUSKETEERS," which opened today at this theatre for a third day run, is the most gripping and spectacular film ever produced by Douglas Fairbanks. In this spectacular photo-feature, Fairbanks will be viewed in a new type of characterization. In the picturesque trappings of a Seventeenth Century cavalier, he is expected to give a sensationally dramatic interpretation to the role of D'Artagnan, dashing swordsman and adventurer. In fact, in "The Three Musketeers," the heroic Doug is said to fulfill his splendid acting of the dual role he played in "The Mark of Zorro." This photoplay represents one of the most painstaking and elaborate efforts at picture making of the year—No expense whatever was spared by Fairbanks, and the production is said to have cost a million dollars. The story is based on historical fact and is acted by the best players in filmdom. Fred Niblo is credited with the direction and, Edward Kniblock prepared the lens work. The camera work in the cast are such sterling players as Marguerite DeLaMotte, Mary McLaren, Barbara A-Mann, Nigel de Brulier, George Siegmann, Leon Barry, Eugene Pallette, Boyd Irwin and many others.
